THE WAR IN GEORGIA.

[TELEGRAPHED TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.]

Entered according to act of Congress, in the year 1864, by J. M. Thomas, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the Confederate States, for the Southern District of Georgia.

Cotton Gaining Ground.

Dalton, April 28.—The Yankees are still in force at Cleveland, Tenn., and their cavalry are scouting in every direction. Their infantry and artillery remain in the Valley between Cleveland and Red Clay.

Cotton sold and steady at 55 cents. Gold, on the 26th, 250, but of quite limited amount.

A meeting has been held at Winchester, Tenn., of the Home Artillery, to Rent Tickets, representing Forrest.—Conscription was adopted for an exemption on the ring. Victory or death is the battle cry with Dr. Brown's gleam.

Richard Rollins, a soldier of Forrest's command, residing near Fort Pillow, testified in regard to the massacre of Yankees, that they were buried down by bloodhounds and buried alive.

Gold closed in New York on the 26th at 250.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Post says that dissatisfaction is going on for the approaching campaign in Virginia. Butler will not command in the forward movement until all arrangements are completed.

The State Democratic Convention of Maryland organized on the 26th.

Gold closed in New York on the 27th at 250.

European advices to the 16th received. The British Ministry was defeated on the 15th, in the House of Commons by Mr. Disraeli's amendment, by a majority of eight majority. Peace is again discussed, for Mercantile is in London. Napoleon's conversation with Lord Cowley is published. Lord Clarendon's speech in the House of Lords. Preparations continued for Paris to fall to be the subject of impending formidable hostilities against England.

Mississippi Senate has impeached Governor Clark for Malfeasance in office.

The siege of Vicksburg continues. The Yankee gunboats show signs of weakness. The Confederate raid cost Grierson's command 1,000 men.

Death of a son of President Davis.

Richmond, May 1.—On Saturday evening last, at 7 o'clock, Joseph, son of President Davis, died from injuries received by a fall from the back portico of the Executive Mansion. His parents were from home at the time of the accident and was not discovered until the little boy was found by a servant in his miserable condition in the yard. Every possible thing could be thought of was applied but all to no purpose.

From Georgia.

Dalton, April 28.—The enemy near Cleveland evidently fear an attack and are constantly in line of battle.

All quiet towards Ringgold.

From Northern Virginia.

Orange C. H., April 28.—Our scouts report Burnside as having arrived at Alexandria, preparatory to joining Grant.

From Richmond.

Richmond, April 28.—Members of Congress are arriving slowly. It is regarded certain now that there will be no quorum Monday.

The President's Message is ready for delivery. It is understood that it contains no point of striking interest.

A dearth of news continues here.

A correspondent writing us from the "Dark Corner" of Wake, says that there are five deserters in that neighborhood who are committing all manner of depredations. One widow woman has been robbed of all she must she had, and hardly a night passes but some one is robbed. Cannot the deserters be cleaned out of this county?

A number of the wounded from the Plymouth fight arrived here yesterday evening and were sent to the different hospitals. We suppose the hospitals below are being cleared with the expectation that another fight is about to take place.

Camp Taylor, April 26, 1864.

Editor Progress:—Sir: Permit me, through the columns of your widely circulated journal, to make public some facts relative to the method in which North Carolina Troops are clad and shod, which facts are not, generally, known. And, in doing so, I especially desire you that my sole object is simply to call the attention of those authorities thereto, in order, if possible, that a change for the better may be initiated.

A widespread impression prevails, both in the army and among citizens, that the soldiers from North Carolina are furnished with better clothing and shoes, and with more certainty and regularity than any other troops in our army, and that the Old North State takes a more tender and motherly interest in the comfort of her sons than any of her sister States. That this is a very erroneous idea I shall proceed to demonstrate.

Shortly after the commencement of the war the Governor of North Carolina contracted with the Confederate States government to furnish the troops of said State with clothing and shoes, equal, if not superior, in quality, to that furnished by the Confederate States to the balance of the army. And, as an evidence of her ability to do so, showed that she had purchased a swift sailing steamer to run the blockade to procure good and substantial English goods for this purpose. In a word, this contract provided that the Confederate States government should pay to North Carolina the amount that it would cost the government to furnish the North Carolina troops with such clothing and shoes as the soldiers from other States received, and that said State would, on her part, furnish equally as good articles to her troops, and, probably, better, as the natural inference was that she would run English goods. The steamer Advance was purchased by the State. It is a well known fact that, with one exception, she has been the most successful vessel engaged in the business of running the blockade, having already made about twenty-trips. Not knowing her tonnage, I cannot correctly estimate how much she could have brought over, but it is reasonable to suppose that, in so many successful returns, our State could have imported enough material to fulfill her contract, particularly as said vessel was owned exclusively by the State, until very recently, when she

Camp Taylor, April 26, 1864.

Editor Progress:—Sir: Permit me, through the columns of your widely circulated journal, to make public some facts relative to the method in which North Carolina Troops are clad and shod, which facts are not, generally, known. And, in doing so, I especially assure you that my sole object is simply to call the attention of those authorities thereto, in order, if possible, that a change for the better may be initiated.

A widespread impression prevails, both in the army and among citizens, that the soldiers from North Carolina are furnished with better clothing and shoes, and with more certainty and regularity than any other troops in our army, and that the Old North State takes a more tender and motherly interest in the comfort of her sons than any of her sister States. That this is a very erroneous idea I shall proceed to demonstrate.

Shortly after the commencement of the war the Governor of North Carolina contracted with the Confederate States government to furnish the troops of said State with clothing and shoes, equal, if not superior, in quality, to that furnished by the Confederate States to the balance of the army. And, as an evidence of her ability to do so, showed that she had purchased a swift sailing steamer to run the blockade to procure good and substantial English goods for this purpose. In a word, this contract provided that the Confederate States government should pay to North Carolina the amount that it would cost the government to furnish the North Carolina troops with such clothing and shoes as the soldiers from other States received, and that said State would, on her part, furnish equally as good articles to her troops, and, probably, better, as the natural inference was that she would run English goods. The steamer Advance was purchased by the State. It is a well known fact that, with one exception, she has been the most successful vessel engaged in the business of running the blockade, having already made about twenty-trips. Not knowing her tonnage, I cannot correctly estimate how much she could have brought over, but it is reasonable to suppose that, in so many successful returns, our State could have imported enough material to fulfill her contract, particularly as said vessel was owned exclusively by the State, until very recently, when she

Again. The Confederate States have a department in Richmond specially and exclusively established to furnish "soldiers on furlough or destitute soldiers" with clothing. Few Confederate soldiers pass through Richmond without availing themselves of this privilege, and getting such articles as they need. Here is to it with North Carolina's in Raleigh, Charlotte, and other places, she has large warehouses overflowing with every article of clothing required by a soldier. Of course, her troops are allowed the same privilege. Let us see. I get a furlough and pass through Raleigh on my way home. I have a tolerably decent suit of clothes that, by great care, I have preserved comparatively for the happy time when my furlough shall come around to go and see "the loved ones at home," for I desire to make as respectable appearance as this time as a ragged rebel can be expected to make, and, to do this, I have had to be truly ragged in camp. I stop at Raleigh to "draw" a suit. I apply to some gold-laced official and ask the question. He refers me to Captain this, who, again, refers me to Major so and so, and so on. In a word, I find the "circumlocution office" in full blast. However, by patience and perseverance, I at length find "the place." I produce my furlough and descriptive list and state my wants, and there—I am told that I "have tolerably good clothes on now, and, therefore, cannot draw any."—So, after laying over twenty four hours expressly to get clothing which I greatly need, I find my time and money thrown away because I do not appear "naked." Here is one whole day lost out of my only eighteen, and Heaven only knows when I shall get another furlough! I do not "draw upon my imagination for my facts." The above truly recites my own experience but a few weeks since.

Now, sir, cannot all this be remedied? Will not our old State comply with her solemn contract, and furnish us with as good clothing as other troops receive? And with as little trouble and delay to us? She enjoys the reputation of doing far better than other States. Does the above sustain the idea? I greatly fear that, like so many individuals, our great old State has been seized with that most of all manias, a desire to speculate, and that she is doing so in this solemn and holy contract. If so, God help her!

But, as before stated, my object is simply to call attention to these ugly facts. I will not trespass upon your columns by comments. The conclusion is inevitable.

With a hope that you will give this a place in your columns, and that it may, at least, somewhat open the eyes of our authorities and ensure a change for the better,

I am, &c.,

Member of Charlotte Battery, A. N. V.

Our Losses at Plymouth.

Our victory at Plymouth was complete and glorious, but the long lists of killed and wounded assure us it was dearly bought. We find the following list of casualties in the Confederate, and if the other brigades engaged lost as heavily as Ransom's, our loss cannot be less than a thousand men, killed and wounded:

In the 24th Regiment N. C. Troops, commanded by Col. Wm. J. Clarke, at Plymouth, N. C., on the the 18th and 20th days of April, 1864:

2d Lieut John Wilkins, killed; privates Thomas Sweeby, Co A, John Collins, Oliver E Pittman and Jarvis Jones, Co B; David G Clifton, Co K, severely wounded on the 18th. On the 20th, Sergt Maj A C Huggins, severely wounded, leg amputated.

*State troops belonging to Clingman's, but serving with Ransom's brigade.

Pasquotank County, N. C. April 20, 1864.

Mr. Pasteur:—Last Saturday I addressed you a note in a political meeting, held at Roxboro', in this county, that Governor Vance had informed a citizen of this county that he could not now, under the law disbanding home guards, protect a man from conscription who had heretofore been discharged by order of our Supreme Court Judges on the ground of having put in a substitute.

A man under thirty-five is conscribed by the first law taking to that age. So goes a discharge by putting in a substitute under forty but over thirty-five. When the next law is passed taking up to forty he is again conscribed, goes out a writ and is discharged. Vance says he cannot now protect that man against a law passed since the decision, but if again conscribed must go into service. Is this so? Can a late act of Congress render null the decree of our highest Court.

If so, where are State rights? Of what force are our Courts, and what is the meaning of Governor Vance's proclamation and orders, to the effect that he would at all events sustain their decisions? Surely all our former decisions are not subject to be reversed or rendered null by subsequent acts of Congress.

Again, is it true that the Governor is such a strong war man—"last man and last dollar man" in the army, and now, at Fayetteville and other places is trying to prove himself even a stronger peace man than Holden?

To the Voters of Nash County.—We are authorized to announce Doctor JAMES D. MATTHEWS a candidate for a seat in the House of Commons of the next Legislature. He is a strict Conservative—will, if elected, oppose to the utmost of his ability, the tendency of Destructive principles and practices to a military despotism. He is in favor of a speedy and honorable peace—with the rights of the States and the freedom of the people. In short, a more firm and consistent friend of the rights of the soldiers and of the people cannot be found. We recommend him to the true Conservatives in the field and at home as every way worthy of their support.

May 2-ddwlt* MANY OF HIS NEIGHBORS.

To the People of North-Carolina.—In compliance with the wishes of many friends, I announce myself a candidate for the office of Governor of North-Carolina, at the election to be held on the first Thursday in August next.

My principles and views, as a Conservative "after the straitest sect," are well known to the people of the State. These principles and views are what they have been.—They will not be changed.

I am not disposed, at a time like this, to invite the people from their employments, and add to the excitement which prevails in the public mind, by haranguing them for their votes. We need all our energies to meet the common enemy, and to provide means of subsistence for our troops in the field and the people at home. Let the people go calmly and firmly to the polls and vote for the men of their choice. I will cheerfully abide their decision, whatever it may be.

If elected I will do every thing in my power to promote the interests, the honor and the glory of North-Carolina, and to secure an honorable peace.

March 4-td W. W. HOLDEN.

Hillsboro' Recorder, Salem Press, Greensborough Patriot, and Henderson Times will please copy till day of election, and forward accounts.

Conservative Meeting.—We are requested to state that there will be a meeting at James Lynn's on Saturday, the 7th of May, at which the presence of all true Conservatives of that section of the County is earnest requested. The object of the meeting is to consider the state of the country and to advise as to the propriety of recommending suitable gentlemen to the Mass Meeting to be held at May Court, in Raleigh, to nominate candidates to represent the Conservative party of the county in the Legislature.

The meeting will be addressed by prominent gentlemen of the county. MANY CITIZENS.

AUCTION AND PRIVATE SALE.

FRENCH BROAD LANDS FOR SALE, GLEN CANNON FARM, GRAHAM AND ORANGE COUNTIES, N. C.

THIS FINE TRACT LIES ON THE FRENCH BROAD River, in the counties of Buncombe, this county (Orange) and is extensively known as the best tract of land, and the most productive property in the county, and probably in Western North Carolina. Its salubrity of climate, beauty of scenery, location and fertility of soil, is so well appreciated by the people in the State. It consists of 1,400 acres of land, 400 of which, with the exception of 40 or 50 acres, are covered with heavy timber, and divided into 4 fields of about 100 acres each, which are now lath fencing on locust posts. 2,000 bushels of corn were gathered from 80 acres of this land this year, by ordinary cultivation and without any fertilizer ever having been applied to it. Ninety acres are laid down in timothy and clover, in the most approved mode, to the grasses and afford heavy crops of hay and excellent pasturage. The balance of the tract, say 700 acres, is the heaviest and best timbered [illegible] in the State.

The whole tract is under good boundary and may be subdivided advantageously, there being four very eligible and desirable building sites, with bottom land attached.

On the premises is a good cottage residence, of five rooms, each with a fire place, kitchen, servants' houses, log house, stage room, dairy, smoke house, framed corn crib, capacity, 2,500 bushels ear corn, one double and five single corn houses, two tenant residences, one two-horse saw and grist mill, all built within thirteen years by the present owner. The saw mill is driven by an overshot wheel of 20 feet in diameter, and is located at one of the finest beautiful water falls of about 100 feet in height, and equal to 100 horse power, and only fifteen minutes walk from the residence.

This property for this year is under rent to Gen. Smith of East Tennessee, who will give any information desired during the absence of the Proprietor.

The price for these lands is (cash, gold) two hundred and sixty thousand dollars. Payment may be made in Confederate Stock at the market value at Columbia, S. C., at time of sale.

With the above property can be purchased twelve remarkably prime and orderly negroes, being a picked gang accustomed to the culture of the farm in the most careful and cleanly style. Among them are four men, three women and five children. The men are excellent plowmen, mowers, cradlers, &c., one is a good carpenter. Of the women, one is an excellent cook and spinner. The children are from 1 to 8 years of age. Also the farm tools, consisting in part of plows, harrows, horse rake, field roller, corn planters, sorgho mill, molasses boilers, corn sheller, straw cutter, timber carts, &c., &c. Also the stock of highly improved cattle.

Address MCK. JOHNSTONE, Care of ANDREW JOHNSTONE, Flat Rock, N. C.

N. B.—I think I can take the liberty with Judge R. M. Saunders and the Right Rev. Bishop Atkinson, of offering them as references in regard to the value, &c., of my farm.

My cattle consists of 15 head, and my sheep of about 80 head.

I have a considerable lot of lumber and 30,000 shingles on hand.

I will take $300,000 for the land, negroes stock, farming tools, lumber, &c., &c., or will sell separately.

DAILY PHOENIX.

MONDAY, MAY 2, 1864.

The Democratic Convention.

The Democratic Convention of this State will assemble in this city to-morrow, and will be called to order at 12 o'clock, M., by the Chairman of the State Committee. The Committee have issued the call for the Convention, and have also published the basis of representation, which is the same as that of 1860. Each county is entitled to as many delegates as it has Senators and Representatives in both branches of the Legislature. The Convention will be composed of 144 members, and 73 votes will be necessary to a choice. The Democracy of the State have been looking forward to this Convention with much interest, and a large attendance is expected. The Democracy of Phoenix will give the delegates a cordial welcome, and do all in their power to make their visit pleasant. The Democracy of this city have been looking forward to the meeting of the Convention with much interest, and have made preparations to receive the delegates in a manner befitting the occasion. The Democracy of Phoenix are not behind their brethren in the rural districts in their devotion to the principles of the party, and will show to the delegates that they are ready to do battle for the right. The Democracy of Phoenix have been looking forward to the meeting of the Convention as the time when the party would be united, and when all differences would be settled, and the party would enter the campaign of 1864 with a united front. We hope that the Democracy of the State will be represented in the Convention by men who will be willing to sacrifice personal feelings for the good of the party, and who will be willing to abide by the decision of the majority. We hope that there will be no contesting delegations, but that the Democracy will be represented by men who will be willing to work for the success of the party. We hope that the Democracy of the State will be represented by men who will be willing to work for the success of the party. We hope that the Democracy of the State will be represented by men who will be willing to work for the success of the party.
